Voxtok and Foxxum bring Premium-music services to connected TVs

Very first “Voxtok Music for TV” app to start in Foxxum app store

Montpellier, France – September 14th 2015 – Voxtok, provider of HiFi connected systems for music services, and Foxxum, leading in Smart TV solutions worldwide, announced today the upcoming release of « Voxtok Music for TV » on the Foxxum application store. With a unique set of features the „Voxtok Music for TV“ app will bring a breakthrough music experience to connected TVs and set top boxes worldwide, engaging current and reaching new users.

“Voxtok Music for TV” availability on Foxxum application store will provide a simple user interface to control a unified music library, whether based on personal files or streaming services. The service automatically adds the covers, names, and titles to the user’s files and combines several sources into one unique and simple library. At the same time it provides additional content such as radio stations and playlists, all accompanied by great recommendation and discovery features.

The Voxtok Music service itself is a multi-room jukebox controlled with a TV remote or a tablet - HTML 5 and HbbTV compliant – providing listeners a standalone music-on-TV user experience. Earlier this year, the company launched its AudioCapsule, a CES Award winning Audiophile-grade player and multi-room server.

« Foxxum is a very natural choice for the delivery of our innovative Music Services. We will bridge the gap between the world of connected TVs and Audio markets, enabling users to rediscover their music library at home, through the lens of a big screen », says Thibaut Dabonneville, VP Marketing at Voxtok.

« It has always been our mission at Foxxum, to bring high quality content to connected devices. With Voxtok we are now integrating a one-of-a-kind music service which truly adds to the Foxxum user experience by connecting to the world of sound », says Ronny Lutzi, CEO at Foxxum.

The full list of features will be released during the official launch in January 2016 on Foxxum application stores.
